

CHURCHILL

REUNION

THE CHURCHILL COAT-OF-ARMS.

IDLEHURST

THIS BOOK BELONGS TO:

JULY 8-15, 1995

A Portion of page xi from "The Churchill Family in America" by Gardner Asaph Churchill and Nathaniel Wiley Churchill, found in the DAR Library (and probably other genealogical libraries).

I would suggest a careful reading of the article on this subject in the Encyclopedia Britannica, and also the many references to John Churchill, Duke of Marlborough, under the latter title, "Domes-day Book," which contains the records of surveys in England up to 1086 A.D., showing the grants of "William the Conqueror" to his followers, with conditions of said lands, etc., contains the name of Roger de Courcil, who is said to have been the ancestor of the English and American Churchills. Armorial bearings or coats-of-arms were first known about 1120 A.D.

The name Churchill is found in English records as Courcelle, Courcil, Curichill, Chercile, Churchil, Churchall, Churchell, and Churchill, the last being the accepted form for many generations.

THE CHURCHILL COAT-OF-ARMS.

I have not been able to find just when or to whom this coat-of-arms was granted, but in "Collins' Peerage," Vol. I., page 365 (foot-note), it is said to have been claimed by Sir John Churchill, son of Jasper, of Bradford, No. 16. The records of Herald's College, England, confirm this claim. He may have inherited it from ancestors generations back, for all evidence I have found, possibly from Bartholomew (No. 5), who was knighted under King Stephen.

PREFACE

In the 1985 reunion yearbook, there was a historical perspective on the Churchill boat building yards, the silver trumpet gift to Henry Ufford Churchill, and the purchase of the property known as Idlehurst, Blodgetts Landing, NH. Genealogy detail started with William Henry and Jane Douglas Hebert Churchill.

This issue provides some early history of the ancestors of both William Henry and his wife, interesting notes of weather of early days, Jane Churchill's poetry, and her son Richard's Kansas ranch.

The updated genealogical detail (in usual book form) is provided as before, but the current family information, photos and extra writings are compiled in the portion where descendants are listed in family groups under each child of William Henry.

A new addition is the Memorial page.

Early History/Genealogy of William Henry Churchill
and
Jane Douglas Hebert Churchill.

In the previous reunion book, it was indicated that the direct Churchill line came from England to America during the 1600's and was made up of several branches who settled in New Hampshire, Massachusetts, Connecticut, New Jersey and Virginia. Our American branch began with Josiah Churchill (he spelled it Churchell) and his wife Elizabeth Foote, who settled in Weathersfield, CT in 1638.

Josiah's fifth child, first son, was Joseph, born 1649, married 1674, and his first son was Nathaniel, born 1677, who married Mary Hurlbut. Their second son was John Churchill, born 1705, who married Bethia Stocking and lived in Middletown, CT.

John's son, Joseph Churchill, born 1734, fought in the Revolutionary War as Captain of a Connecticut line (providing an acceptable ancestor for National Society Daughters of the American Revolution membership for a number of family women). Joseph married Prudence Tryon in 1754 and they had a son David.

David Churchill (1771-1823) married Jerusha Ufford (1771-1805) in 1792. Their third child of six was Henry Ufford Churchill (1797-1868), who married Emily Green Hall of Portland, CT in 1817. Henry was a ship commander and made frequent trips from Boston to Glasgow, England. Their ninth and youngest child was William Henry Churchill.

Details on these generations can be located in these books: "The Churchill Family in America" and "Genealogy and Biography of the Connecticut Branch of Churchill Family in America" available in many genealogical libraries.

The early generations of Jane Douglas Hebert are found in handwritten information given to Grace Kellsey Worth by her mother; a will of John Jacob Morley, 1797; and a book mentioned below.

On Jane Hebert's fathers side, much of the information comes from her great uncle's will, John Jacob Morley, who died in England in 1797 and was named for his grandfather, Sir John Jacob, 3rd, baronet of England. Sir John had two daughters: Dorothy married the Rev. Abraham Oakes; Catherine married Captain Morley (brother to J. J. Morley). Dorothy's daughter, Dorothy Oakes, married James Hebert and they had a son Hildebrand Oakes Hebert. Catherine's daughter Dorothy Morley, married Mr. Harvey and they had a daughter, Susan. Interesting as it is, these second cousins, Susan Harvey and Hildebrand Oakes Hebert, married. They had two children, John Henry and Mary. John Henry Hebert married Elizabeth Smith and they had five children, the fourth of whom was Jane Douglas Hebert.

On her mother's side, it begins with John Eales (later Eells) in New Canaan, CT, and his wife, Mary. Their son, Samuel, called Major Eells, married Anna Lenthall, and they, also, named their son Samuel. He was born 1666, was a Colonel and married Martha Whiting. [These generations are detailed in "Eells Genealogy" family record book at DAR library]

Colonel Samuel had a son, John, baptized 1703, who became a minister, married Anna Beard, and they had a son Jeremiah Beard Eells, who was a Revolutionary soldier for Connecticut. He married Lois Benedict and had 12 children, all of whom lived. One of their children was Elizabeth (Betsey) Eells, who married Josiah Smith in New York City about 1800. Their daughter, Elizabeth Smith, was Jane Hebert's mother.

WILD STORMS AT SUNAPEE
SEPTEMBER 1821

In September of 1821 there was a season of uncommon storms and tempests. On September 3rd, a most violent storm raged on the whole Atlantic coast, from Portsmouth to Charleston, in which many lives and a great amount of property were destroyed. In New London area, from 11:30 to 12:30 pm. so great was the fury, that the scene was truly awful. The deafening roar of the storm and the mingled, crashing of windows and chimneys, and falling timber, with the continuous torrents of rain, together inspired the beholder with terror. After that the wind shifted into the northwest and the fury abated. By 4 pm. the weather was calm and serene. This storm, thought one of the most violent ever known in New Hampshire, produced little injury, in comparison with the whirlwind of September 9th.

It was a Sunday, unusually hot and sultry, the air having a heavy feeling and it was difficult to breathe. At about 4 pm. the clouds began to gather in the west and in a short time formed into one large black cloud which rolled about and began to spread along at a terrible rate making loud noises and tearing up everything that came in its way. Trees were torn up and the remaining ones were leveled to the ground. The tornado was said to have commenced near Lake Champlain; hail storms and violent winds were also experienced in other parts of the east coast, at the very same time. The whirlwind entered New Hampshire at Cornish, and crossing the mountain, gathered in strength as it passed through Croydon, a little south of the Croydon peak. Its course took it southward across the northern part of Lake Sunapee, striking the west shore of the lake where the Granliden Hotel stood later on. The path of the storm was about one half mile wide, and it picked up houses and objects and carried them for miles. At the home of Harvey Huntoon, near Sunapee Harbour, it picked up a feather bed on which a baby was sleeping, carried it across the lake and into the Andover area, a distance of 17 miles. The dead baby was found days later. While crossing Lake Sunapee, the whirlwind drew up vast quantities of water, an appearance quite terrifying to those fishermen who were near it. From a circle about 350 feet in diameter at the surface of the water, it expanded on each side toward the heavens, dark as midnight, but occasionally illuminated by vivid flashes of lightning. Then the storm veered toward New London. The extent of the whirlwind in New London was about four miles, varying in width as the column alternately rose and fell. From there it passed up the northwest side of Mt. Kearsarge apparently in two columns, which closed again as one as it veered southward again and settled down the opposite side into Warner. Some houses were entirely demolished, not a timber, nor a board, nor a brick left. A saw mill was torn down and twelve thousand boards in the mill carried away by the whirlwind. The shores of the lake on the following morning, were covered with the ruins of buildings, fences, furniture etc. which had fallen out of the tempest. The homeless survivors in all these areas huddled together in fear, lamenting the destruction, and reliving the horrors of that instant in which houses, barns, trees, fences, fowl and people were all lifted from the earth into the whirlwind and dashed into a thousand pieces.

- Taken from an article in The Gray House Journal, 1978, published by the Gray House, which began as Crocketts Dairy in 1918. From 1932 to 1966 it was an ice cream parlor, then expanded to the present restaurant (Jct. Rt 11, 103A & 114).

The original deed for Idlehurst, printed in the 1985 reunion brochure, indicated that it was purchased on October 9, 1890, in the name of Jane Douglas Hebert Churchill, William Henry's wife. That is an interesting fact, since in 1890 few women owned property.

She was quite a lady, who live to the ripe age of 87, writing poetry, alot of it about Sunapee.

In 1990, the present family property owners met at Idlehurst to celebrate 100 years of Idlehurst. At that time a book of Jane Churchill's selected poems was published. Copies are available at this reunion from Emily Robinson.

[As you read through the current family biographies, you will note that there are an abundance of musicians, artists, poets, writers, athletes, dancers, those who like horses and all kinds of sports. We inherited some wonderful genes! Ed.]

The Churchill Ranch

from Wendell N. Crim

(Note: The information in this writing is presented without reference to my records which are currently packed away in storage until we move into our new home in mid May. So the dates used are approximations.)

The land was homesteaded by Richard Gerard Churchill in Finney county Kansas east of Garden City. One source puts the date at 1865, but that sounds a little early to me. Richard was the father of Jane Churchill Nissen, grandfather to Harriet, Helen, Ruth and Priscilla Nissen and my great-grandfather. Jane Churchill grew up on the ranch during the turn of the century. While living in Massachusetts as a young woman, she married Harry Nissen.

They returned to Kansas in the 1910's. Their first 3 children were born on the ranch. In the mid 1920's the Nissen family returned east. The automobile was sufficiently developed by this time for them to travel by car between Massachusetts and Kansas. The trip lasted 2 weeks including many nights camped by the roadside. Motels were a future development. These travels took place about the time Dwight Eisenhower led a group of soldiers on a coast-to-coast convoy eventually resulting in his Presidential administration establishing the interstate system of roads we zip down today compressing the trip to Kansas from Boston to 3 or 4 days.

The lore passed on to me has it Richard Churchill was a sailor out of Connecticut when the west opened for homesteading. He decided on a change in lifestyles to the rancher / farmer claiming his stake about 15 miles east of Garden City. At the time, the popular theory being advanced by the U.S. Government stated rain "followed the plow." All the west needed was enough ground broken and the annual rainfall would be more like what falls east of the 100th meridian. The dust bowl days of the 1930's showed this theory incorrect. The property is distinguished by a very shallow ravine carved east to west as part of the headwaters to Pawnee Creek.

This creek flows into the Arkansas River at Larned, KS which flows to the Mississippi River and the Gulf of Mexico. The 18 square mile watershed west of the ranch lies at the eastern edge of the flat expanse east of the Rocky Mountains marking the start of rain's 3,000 ft drop to sea level. The ravine is dry most of the time.

1995 may be an exception. Average annual rainfall is 16-23 inches compared to 30-40 inches east of the 100th meridian. The odd storm can dump 18 inches leading to flooding in Pawnee Creek proper a few miles east of the ranch. Flood data shows a notable absence in flooding at Larned since 1970. During the 25 years prior to that time, floods occurred every 3 to 5 years. In addition to reduced surface water, the water table has dropped many feet in recent years causing wells to go dry.

The change in water table is attributable, according to local folk, to increased irrigation farming and cattle feed lots. Both use wells as a water source. An article in the New York Times traced the lowered water table to California draining large volumes of water from the western side of the continental divide. In short, water is still the central issue west of the 100th. And water politics is alive and well.

The Crim's recently viewed 16mm films taken by Harry Nissen in 1926 after Harry, Jane and family moved back to Boston. The Nissen family was on a trip to Yellowstone including a swing through Kansas visiting the ranch. Richard Churchill is shown driving a wheelbarrow with watering can to the windmill driven well trailed by 7 year old Harriet and Helen. Jane and Harry demonstrated for the camera considerable skills with a horse on the open range. Later in the film we were treated to sights in the newly created national park including Old Faithful and the Grand Canyon of the Yellowstone. Seeing a spry Richard Churchill in movies dated 1926 makes me question the homestead date of 1865. He would have been on the ranch for 60+ years in 1926. While not impossible, it does seem a bit extreme. Or the Churchill's have exceptional longevity genes.

In 1986 my wife Eva and I visited the ranch over Christmas break. One look at the night sky helped us realize how a sailor could feel at home in Western Kansas. Unobstructed by city lighting or gaseous debris, the space-black sky blazed with razor-sharp stars in 3D. Being east coast residents at the time, the deafening silence was restorative to the soul. Relative to the ranch, Lake Sunapee and Hillsboro Camp are busy areas burdened with ambient noise from the dynamo-hum of human activity. On that trip we did extensive aerial photography of the ranch.

Recently a local Kansas land preservation group proposed building a dam on the ranch as part of a 73 dam system in the Pawnee Creek watershed. Based on our aerial records, we determined the damage to the ranch land would be greater than the benefits to the watershed. It was also evident our lack of participation would not jeopardize the overall goal of the project. The caretaker of the property, who has farmed in the area all his life, agreed and we declined to have the dam constructed.

Eva and I are again living in the busy confines of a metroplex. So we'll be visiting the ranch more regularly, reviving our souls and pondering the brave people who broke the path before us. At this point the land is used for cattle grazing. Small strips of east-west oriented land, outside of the ravine, have been farmed in past years. Based on the barn, shed, pens and chutes present in 1986, I think Richard Churchill also worked with livestock. In recent years all of the structures have been removed.

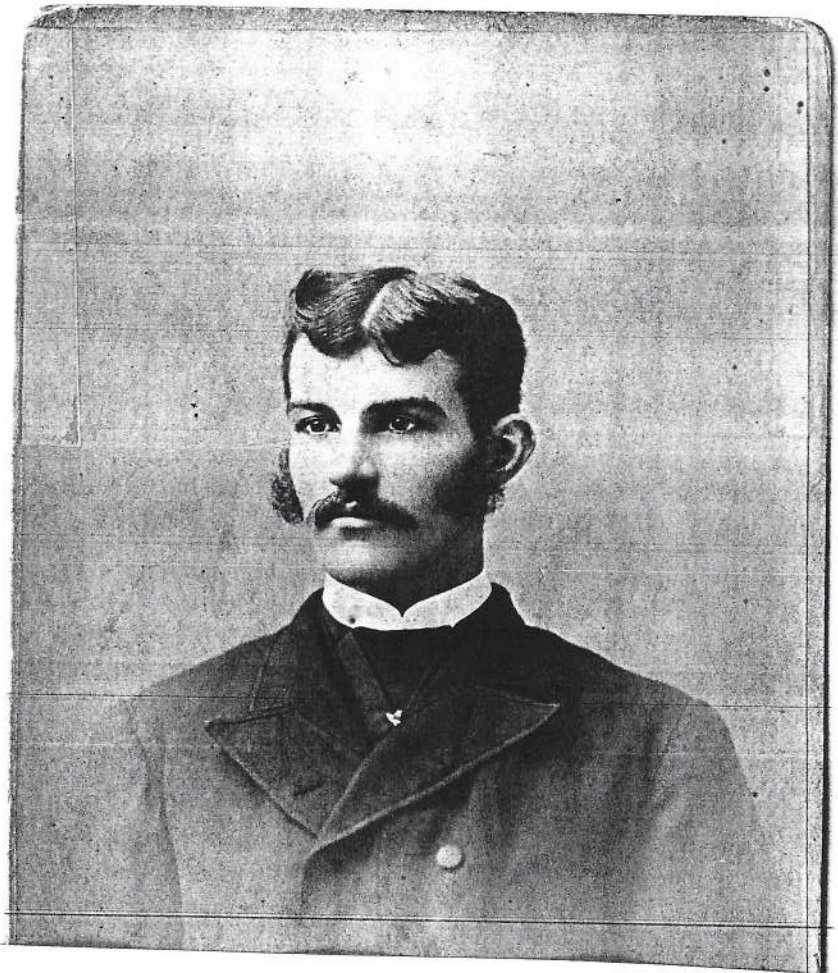

Today, a fence line is the only marking of the Churchill homestead. At the eastern end is an extensive system of prairie dog burrows. The residents send quite a chatter into the wind-blown quiet. The largest herd of deer I've ever seen lurked behind shallow rolls in the land. Their weariness of man was greater than their hunter-fed, quasi-domestic suburban cousins of the east. The sky is ruled by great birds. Rough-legged hawks maintain vigils from cottonwood and fence post vantage points setting to wing when rabbits or mice stray from protection. Sparrow hawks work over the smallest ground mammals and large insects. Turkey vultures carry out their undertaker duties. The land of the west is subtle. Sit still and observe. It opens a window to the present vitality.

Adjacent to the ranch is a schoolhouse built by Richard Churchill and Harry Nissen. The stone walls may have come from the bluffs of the ravine west of the Churchill home site. These walls and the roof structure remained erect in 1986 though the roof had holes. A primitive building at best, the gable work suggests a wood artisan was present during construction. Rounded, almost carved, shingles on the gable instead of functional clapboard could have been the expression of a developing wood crafter, Harry Nissen. Molding a talent brought to maturity 20 to 30 years later in carvings still gracing Hillsboro camp's gathering places. The schoolhouse sits in the corner of a cultivated field not on the Churchill property, the only structure for miles in any direction. On our photographic flights from the Garden City airport, it was the most prominent mark on the vast flatness.

Richard was also an author. I have read his book on economics where he holds out against the evil of becoming indebted and paying interest on debit. His conviction was so strong, it seemed to demagnetize my bank cards as I read. I have heard there are more of his writings located in the county library and or the local historical society. On one of our upcoming flights to the ranch, we'll explore more of the writings of Richard Gerard Churchill.

son of Beatrice and Harry McClure

Allison managed indoor movie theatres for a national chain from 1936-1950, then entered the drive-in movie field, in which he owned and/or managed drive-in theatres, until his retirement. Education: Business degree University of Kansas.

During this interesting career, he had many fascinating experiences, but none so exciting as being robbed at gunpoint.

Al says, "The crooks kidnapped me also, and I was driven into the country, where, with much persuasion I convinced the gunman to release me. That was in August 1953. (see newspaper clipping)

Al and Margaret live in Wichita and go to Arizona in the winter. Al likes to do bird-watching, loves dogs, bridge and cooking. He is interested in geography, construction and engineering. He plays golf, watches basketball, bowling, ice skating and gymnastics.

Al and Margaret are sorry they can't attend the reunion but they will be staying in the Colorado Rockies during July and August, enjoying the blue sky (Al's favorite color).

Al has the silver trumpet of his great grandfather (story in 1985 reunion book) and also a medal earned for saving a lady from drowning. He is sending a scrapbook, with photos, to pass around and enjoy at the reunion. (See Sally Kassman at Sunflower Lodge and ask for it).

Loots Drive-in, Kidnaps Manager

Armed Bandit Gets $343.15 From Theater

A. C. McClure, Mgr.
Is Later Released
Near Boeing Plant

An armed bandit robbed the Pawnee Drive-in theater of $343.15 at 12:30 a.m. Friday and kidnaped its manager, Al C. McClure, 4 Hillcrest, Eastborough.

Manager McClure later was "kicked out of the car" two miles south of Boeing Airplane company plant on K-15, according to officers. He was unharmed. His release came about shortly before 1 a.m., 20 minutes after the kidnaping. The kidnaper then headed north, McClure said.

... Bandit-kidnaper's Victim ...

Police said the robber drove into the theater, parked the car, and then asked to see the manager.

A man at the concession stand said he saw the two men walk by and enter the manager's office, which is located in the rear of the concession stand. He thought nothing about it, for everything looked normal.

Evidently the bandit made the manager empty the safe, because an employee found it wide open when he went in later.

Police described the thug as being 5 feet, 10 inches tall, weighing 150 pounds, and in his 30's. He was wearing a tan suit and a light straw hat turned up in front. The money taken was in a bank bag.

Janis and Jerry live in Kansas, race sailboats and love skiing. They wrote: "In March we went to the British Virgin Islands to cruise for a week in a 42 foot sailboat. So we fear that the budget will not allow us to come to NH for the reunion.

We have fond memories of the visit we made some years ago to see Grace Worth and Lake Sunapee. Hope you all have a great 1995 reunion.

If any of you see Front Street, Dodge City, in movies or on TV, look for the gunsmith shop owned by F. C. Zimmerman. He was John Churchill's father-in-law."

Little Red Canoe at 50

from Wendell N. Crim

In 1989, Eva and I acquired one of the red canvas canoes from Hillsboro Camp put out to pasture by aluminum and plastic. We named her Aunt Jane in memory of my grandparents Harry and Jane Nissen using the name by which my grandmother was known to the campers. After sending the canoe's serial number from the keel to Old Town, they sent us a copy of the construction log, a sales brochure and bill of original sale.

The keel was laid the day before Pearl Harbor was bombed in 1942. Harry Nissen of Hillsboro Camp was listed as the original owner the following April. The first order of business for me was a winter project refinishing the interior woodwork. The job was completed with a new coat of marine varnish, new cane seats and a brass name plate from Old Town. Eva bought us Old Town paddles for our 4th wedding anniversary. As a celebration of 50 years afloat, we took advantage of living in Michigan close to the Great Lakes.

Numerous bodies of water in northwestern New Jersey were enjoyed while we lived there (we didn't think it possible either). During the last week of October 1989 and the last week of daylight savings time, we worked half days and paddled every afternoon. Michigan was a challenge due to its size. But we soon found rivers, then bays and inland lakes within a reasonable drive which were not serviced by canoe liveries or ramps for motorized boats giving us peace, quiet and space.

During the canoe's 50th year we combined our access to aviation weather with good maps of Michigan's coastline. Parts of Lakes Michigan and Huron were identified which are sheltered from prevailing southwesterly winds of summer or the howling northwesterly behind a cold front. During the summer of 1992, Aunt Jane was taken on 25 different outings ranging from crystal clear salmon rivers to paddling Lake Michigan at 4 different locations chosen based on wind direction and velocity. We covered as many as 25 miles of flat water in a day. Aunt Jane also plied the waters of Lake Huron, particularly Saginaw Bay.

Our favorite big lake location was the northern coast of Beaver Island in northern Lake Michigan. Getting there required a 3 hour drive to the ferry, 3 hours on the ferry ($150 round-trip) and then another couple of miles to the lodge on the northern shore. Beaver Island features coastline, adjacent islands and harbors. There are two large inland lakes to paddle when the big lake is unsettled. A canoe builder on the island told us of paddling the 20 some miles from the mainland to Beaver and the adjacent islands in wooden canoes. He pointed out short canoes fit between waves making them less likely to breakup in rough weather.

On Beaver Island, we discovered how ideal this little canoe is for photographing waterfowl. Saginaw Bay was also particularly well suited for her and close to our home. Protected by small islands on one side and the mainland on the other, wave action was minimized. Plus the water was too shallow for motorboats. These two factors make an ideal summer home for waterfowl of many species. The stealth capabilities of the wood and canvas canoe allowed us to eavesdrop on afternoon chatter sessions of the ducks.

Ducks spend summer afternoons in shallow water surrounded by tall reeds where they have opened lookout points. They seem to be continually laughing at each others jokes. With a quiet canoe, its possible to ease up on their blind side and imagine the content of their chatter. The blue heron has been the most fascinating of the waterfowl.

Our goal of a tight photo of big blue on the wing took 3 years to realize. Yet I want a better one. In the process to collecting this trophy, we've been treated to the flight of Arctic turns, dives of king fishers, the song of loons and the schooling of fledgling eagles in the rudiments of flight.

The paddles we use are the longest available, in excess of 5 ft or half the canoe's length. Yes, in complete violation of every rule known to campers on recommended paddle length. With these long lever arms, paddling upstream is an option we elect often. This saves the logistical problems of positioning / retrieving multiple vehicles when the canoe is a one-way traveler. On flat water we can out run fishing boats powered by trawling motors. On a related note, the best way to move a fisherman and his beeping finder from your favorite area is to tell him about the big fish being caught "on the other side of the lake." Once it sinks in, he's gone.

Aunt Jane no longer rides on top of the car. All but 2 of her 11 foot length fit inside our minivan. This was also true with the mid-sized hatchback we drove before the minivan. No longer am I willing to stress the 50 year old frame and deck in the winds of highway speed. Driving at 65 mph into 20 mph of headwind puts 85 mph across the canoe. Force increases to the 3rd power with speed meaning that extra 20 mph increases destructive forces by 200%. Bottom line: she comes off only once.

At one point after the interior had been brightened by sanding and new varnish, we considered removing the canvas cover. We hoped to clean up the wood exterior and then seal it with a clear fiberglass so the beautiful wood of the hull could be enjoyed. After reading up on the subject and talking with wooden canoe renovators and builders, we abandoned the idea.

Canvas covered canoes, when stored properly, like the Nissens and Donaheys have always done, almost never develop dry rot. This is particularly true when white ash, arbor vita, is used. Aunt Jane has white ash decks. The wicking action of the canvas cover dries the wood completely. A plastic sealer still leaks enough water to penetrate the wood, but keeps it from drying. So fiberglass sealed wooden canoes develop dry rot and soon are gone. Fiberglass is also made cloudy by UV light from the sun. Combine this with the white marks from scratches and soon the once clear coat again has the woodwork hidden with ugliness. After we make a few more visits to recanvassing shops, one will be chosen to tailor Aunt Jane a new dress of canvas. Probably in hunter green this time.

Since the canoe has been in our care, two household moves have been made with professional movers. From New Jersey to Michigan, we coached the movers into building a support structure around her in the trailer eliminating potential damage by a shifting load. From Michigan to Indiana, the crew gladly secured her to the rafters of a second trailer above Eva's grand piano far from danger. For storage at home we continue to use the system Bob and Priscilla Donahey use. Two trapezes on pulleys are anchored to the rafters in the garage above the cars. The canoe rests in a trapeze, at the bow and the stern. For storage, she is raised to the ceiling. There her wood can dry completely and is out of the path of destructive forces. In the days she was transported on the car roof, the canoe was simply lowered onto the car, secured and away we went in about 5 minutes.

Today, I take a few extra minutes placing her inside the car where she is chauffeured to the day's appointed voyage. For longer trips, we are considering building a shipping crate. She could then be sent ahead to Rangely, ME or the Boundary Waters of Minnesota. We could then fly in joining Aunt Jane for a few delightful days paddling in clear quiet waters.

Sunapee Story

from Wendell N. Crim

Over labor day of 1989, my wife and I saw Lake Sunapee from above the Presidential range. We had flown our plane to Rangely, ME for the holiday. On the return trip to our home, then in New Jersey, the weather was exceptionally clear and calm. We decided to find our way home using only ground features without the usual maps and electronic navigation systems. Immediately after wheels-up, Mt. Washington was sighted and we set our course for its summit.

Passing 2,000 ft above the Presidential range, we could see the Atlantic Ocean to the east. To monitor our southwesterly route, we sighted 4 distinct geographical features for guidance: Mt. Chocorua, Lake Winnepesaukee, Lake Sunapee and Mt. Monadnock. They became our stepping stones across New Hampshire's brook of air. Sighting all 4 from above Mt. Washington was the crowning moment of a wonderful holiday weekend. Lake Sunapee took it's place with the giants of New Hampshire in that view.

Sunapee's inclusion was all the more special to us because of the family history associated with the lake. As we passed east of Lake Sunapee, Hillsboro Camp emerged from its nest behind the hills. While we have flown this route a number of times using electronic navigation, it was most fully appreciated with the nav systems powered down, the maps folded and our noses pressed against the window.

After crossing Monadnock, we took up a WSW heading to the Hudson River which we followed south to the New York City region.

IN MEMORY of
Harriet Jane Nissen

September 21, 1918 — April 16, 1995

Harriet and her twin sister Helen were born September 21, 1918, in Finney County, Kansas (Southwestern part of the state). They were premature by about a month. At birth they were so small that their mother could put her wedding ring on them as a bracelet.

In 1922 they moved to Lancaster, Massachusetts, and about a year later moved to Lexington, Massachusetts. Harriet went through the Lexington schools graduating from high school in 1937. In high school her interests were sports, art and chemistry.

In the fall of 1937 she entered Nason College in Springvale, Maine. (This school is no longer in existence.) She graduated in 1941 with a degree in Home Economics. Her first year out of college she taught at Tilton-Northfield High School. The next year she returned to Nason College as a chemistry instructor. She remained there until the fall of 1946 when she took a new job as a Home Demonstration Agent for the state of Maine and was stationed in Fort Kent, Maine. There she enjoyed her job and also all of the French speaking people in the area. About four years later she was moved to Orono, Maine, and Penobscot county.

During the summers of 1943 - 1946 she worked for her parents at Hillsboro Camp cooking for the campers and doing other odd jobs. This was a big challenge as it was during the war when meat, sugar and canned goods were not readily available. She always produced a good meal.

A year after her father died in 1955 she became the Home Demonstration Agent for Hillsborough County and had her office in Milford. She remained there until 1980 when she retired.

During the summers she was a children's summer camp director.

Since her retirement she has been busy helping to run a family camp in Hillsboro with her sister Priscilla and brother-in-law Bob. Harriet loved to cook and, during this time, she canned pickles, made fudge and peanut butter cups to sell at a local farm stand.

A Memorial Service will be held April 30, 1995, at 2:30 in the afternoon at the Unitarian-Universalist Church, 58 Lowell Street, Nashua, NH.

Dick and Carolyn are both retired and live in New London, NH. Dick owns and operates a picture framing business from his home, is active in the local Garden Club, Rotary Club, and Institute at Dartmouth College. They both participate in volunteer activities; in fact, there was an article in the Spring 1995 issue of the Kearsarge Chronicle, profiling Dick and Carolyn and their volunteer literacy work in the Kearsarge elementary schools under the auspices of the Rotary Club of New London. When thanked for his help, Dick responded, "It's a two way street. We volunteers get a great deal of satisfaction out of working with the students and appreciate the opportunity to become familiar with what's cooking in the schools."

Several historic notes they wish to share:

Some of Dick's Churchill ancestors and some of Carolyn's Hotchkiss ancestors are burried close to each other in the Middletown, CT cemetery! Small world.

Dick remembers accompanying his Mother, Jane Sweetland, to the lake in the 1920's. He reports: "My Father, Elmer Sweetland, took us to Grand Central Station in NY for the early morning train. We changed trains in Claremont Junction and got to Lake Sunapee Landing in Newbury in late afternoon. There we and our baggage boarded the steamboat Kearsarge for the ride over to Blodgett's Landing, where we were met by Nana (Elizabeth) and Grandpa (Franklin) Kellsey.

A LOT OF HISTORY IS WRITTEN DURING A 10 YEAR PERIOD
NOT ALL OF IT MAKES THE NEW YORK TIMES
BUT IT CAN MAKE THE 1995 CHURCHILL GENEALOGY UPDATE

Now, to cover a few high points in the life of Daphne Elizabeth Church:

In 1986 I toured Italy with my son Kevin. Rome's Cafe de Paris is a favorite spot for hot fudge sundaes. (My favorite) The fourth of July in Pompeii was quite an experience, and the Hydrofoil trip from Capri to Sorrento was every bit as fascinating.

I retired from Harvard Medical School in September 1991. Shortly afterward I joined John Hancock Financial Services after obtaining my Life and Health Licenses. Since then my Series 6 and Series 63 Licenses have been earned from the NASD. These licenses have enhanced my career in the Mutual Fund and Variable Products available through John Hancock.

I have been accepted as a degree student at Harvard University, and will graduate in June, 1996.

Kevin Wisneski, my youngest son, began a degree in Aeronautical Engineering at Embry Riddle University located in Daytona Beach, Florida.. He will probably receive his degree about 1998.

My oldest son, Kenneth F. Wisneski, Jr., moved to New Orleans, LA to train in Southern and French cooking.

Four additional grandchildren have been added to my family count since 1985. In addition, I have two Great-grandchildren and three step-grandchildren.

Oh ! yes, had my first flying lesson in 1994. Who knows what will transpire along that line.

The June 29, 1992 earth quake proved to be an interesting experience that I shared with Kevin while we were visiting Dan and Sally Kassman in California.

This Spring I was elected Regent of the Arron Guild Chapter, DAR.

It has been my pleasure to work on the 1995 Churchill Reunion during the past year and I look forward to a wonderful fun packed week with all the family in July at Lake Sunapee. Hope you enjoy it as much as I have enjoyed my share of the preparation for it. Also, a huge thank you to all the various Committee Chairpersons who have helped me along the way.

And, now I look to tomorrow, next year, and our next Reunion in 2005.

She loves to watch the Miami Dolphins beat the pants off the Boston Patriots. Her interests are photography and her grandsons. Carolyn's favorites include: Purple, country music, Ansel Adams photography, poets Gibran and Longfellow, Kenny Rodgers, and thick chocolate frappes.

Richard's hobby is restoring antique automobiles. The two most recent being a 1967 Chevy Camaro that took 2nd place Junior in the AACA Spring National Meet, and a 1967 Mercury Cougar (first time this car was shown) that took 3rd place Junior in the same show.

Richard's favorite dinner is steak with baked potatoes (sour cream, chives and butter, please) and a Ceasar salad.

"My special memory from the 1985 reunion was watching Brandy (Patsos' dog) diving for rocks in the lake"

Richard Brenner Jr. (6.020)

(son of Carolyn and Richard Brenner)

"My career at present is in aeronautical upholstery and interior design, also part-time tatoo artist. I enjoy the Miami Dolphins games, chicken cordon bleu, and my favorite actors: Mel Gibson and Kristie Alley."

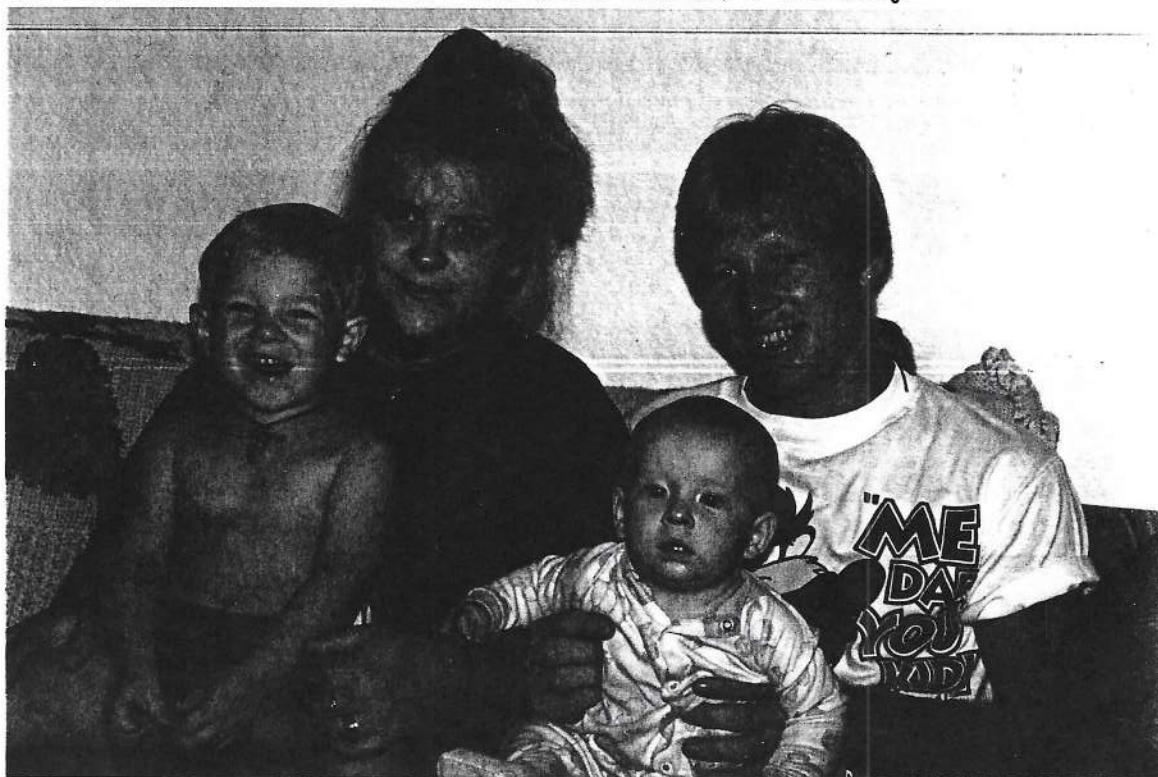

"The family reunion ten years ago? My biggest memory is of the crowd playing the card game Jenkins."

Carrie-ann (6.021) and Jeffery Harding
 \ daughter of Carolyn and Richard Brenner

Carrie-ann is a researcher for Nelsen Media Research. Education: High School. She enjoys creating crafts and horseback riding. Carrie-ann likes the Miami Dolphins, Steven King books, and her favorite color is green.

Jeffery is a recycling engineer, who enjoys four wheeling, hunting and model planes. His favorite food is Lasagna, and favorite sport is football.

Right now they are busy enjoying their small children, Joshua, 3 and baby Timothy.

Kenneth (5.16) and Cynthia Wisneski
 \ son of Daphne Church and Kenneth Wisneski

" Since the last reunion, I have lived in several places and done alot of cooking in restaurants:in Duxbury, MA, Martha's Vineyard and New Orleans. At present, I am a chef at NOLA's, New Orleans in the French Quarter. This is one of the city's top 5 restaurants, and I am learning Cajun Creole cooking style. I am also chairperson for the Chef and Child Foundation, ACF. We hope to move back to the Northeast by spring 1996.

Cynthia is a Registered Nurse, working at Tulane University Medical Center as a NICU. Our two-year old, Jeffery, keeps us on the go."

"We have such a wonderfully big family. That is what impressed me at the 1985 reunion"

Kevin F. Wisneski (5.17)
 \ son of Daphne Church and Kenneth Wisneski

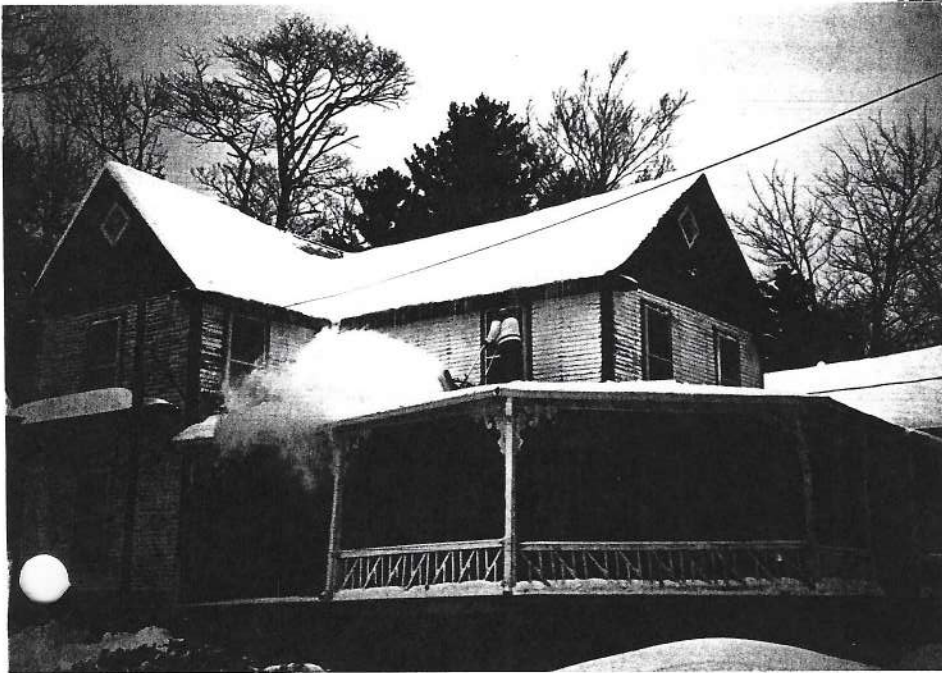

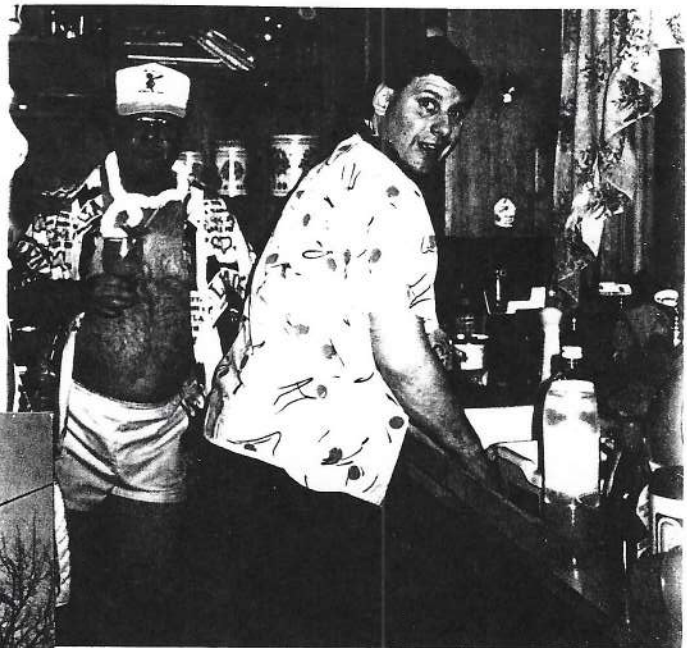

"I am a full-time student at Embry-Riddle Aeronautical University in Daytona Beach, FL, earning a BS in Aircraft Avionics and Maintenance. I am also employed by the University to manage the Self-Paced Program for the University Mathematical Department. I serve as an elected officer for the Society of Commercial Aviation Technicians and have received two university achievement awards in this position. I love flying, hold a Private Pilot license and am in the process of pursuing other ratings.

Gary (5.20) and Wendy Church
 \son of Artie and Barbara Church

Gary is a machinist/welder, P/T superintendent, P/T student. Education: Dumont High School, Bergen Community College, Bergen Technical School.

He likes to watch football, baseball and NASCAR racing, and eat Chinese or Italian foods. His hobbies are collectibles and photography.

Gary says, "My favorite Sunapee memory was walking to Al's Place to buy comics and candy when I was about 5 years old. I loved the way Al's store smelled of candy and hot dogs. When my sisters and I were young, it seemed like a very long drive from NJ to Sunapee. We would ask my Mom and Dad if we were there yet (at least every 15 minutes). We must have driven them nuts, we were so anxious to get there."

Wendy is an administrative assistant and likes to cross stitch in her free time.

Kenneth (4.13) and Dot Kellsey
 \ son of Franklin and Martha Kellsey

Ken and Dot are both retired, and enjoy reading, cribbage, bridge, and singing in their church choir. They like to travel and since their children and grandkids are spread across the country, they get to do some travel to see them.

Dot's hobbies are machine knitting and gardening. Their cottage at Idlehurst is Grey Gables and they live there most of the summer months.

Dot says, "My special memory of the 1985 reunion is that I won the photo contest!"

Charlene Kellsey (5.21)
 \ daughter of Ken and Dot
 Kellsey

Charlene is librarian at a community college. She loves horses (is currently buying one), dance lessons, and medieval history. She lives with her son, Kenneth, age 16, and daughter, Rebecca, age 12, in Saratoga, CA, near San Jose. Kenneth was accepted this spring into the Festival Band at California Polytechnic University.

Christine (5.22) and Dick Weber
 \ daughter of Ken and Dot Kellsey

Christine is an accountant and Richard is a telephone installation technician. They live in Houston, Texas. Chrisie's children, Denise, age 20 and Nick, age 18 are looking forward to seeing their cousins at the reunion.

Claire (5.23) Kellsey Ayraud
 \ daughter of Ken and Dot Kellsey

Claire is an accountant, self-employed. She is also a writer, working on her BA degree in English. Claire enjoys skiing in winter, mountain biking in summer, and she takes ballet and jazz classes year round. Her hobby is creative writing, and she has put together a reunion book of poems and prose by family members. She and her two daughters live in Crested Butte, CO, so of course they can ski whenever the mood strikes them. Lucky people! Claire says, "I live in a small town in the Colorado Rockies. This special place is close to nature where I need to be."

Tamara, age 14, is active in theater during the school year, and also during the summer with a local workshop and play production. She plays volleyball, basketball, gymnastics, is an avid snowboarder and takes jazz dance during the summer. She is in the school band playing keyboards this year.

Danica, age 11, has joined Odyssey of the Mind this year and is playing flute in the school band. She enjoys skiing, sledding and skating and is looking forward to being in the summer theater group. She has taken piano for three years, but will take a break in favor of flute practice now.

Memories: "Playing on the rocks with my sisters along Idlehurst shore, pretending to be sea monkeys. The 1985 reunion was a special time for me and my favorite part was the Porch Prowl because I was able to sit and talk with family members individually while I was prowling and also when I took my turn serving at our cottage. It was a quiet, one on one experience with several people I hadn't talked with for some time. I hope we can continue this tradition in 1995.

Martha Murdoch Kellsey, "Nana" to me, was a very special person in my life. Our times together alone at Sunapee will live in my heart forever. She sang songs to me and recited poetry and instilled in my soul a love of God and an assurance that I am a special person, as we all are, that gave me the self-esteem to find my true vocation. The Owl and the Pussycat is still one of my favorite poems and I can hear her voice, with that distinctive Irish brogue, reading it to me at bedtime in the green room of Grey Gables cottage, with the night sounds coming in through the open screened window. Broad leaves rustled in the breeze off the lake, the gentle waves hitting the rocks along the shore lulled me to sleep as if I was "rocked in a beautiful pea green boat off to sea."

Some history: I am not sure that everyone knows that my grandmother, Martha Murdoch, was born in Ireland and met my grandfather, Franklin Lewis Kellsey, when he was stationed over there in W.W.I. They fell in love and married, and she made the Atlantic crossing alone, to be with him in spite of her seasickness and during a time when immigrants were deluging the US. I could taste her fear, when reading the letters she sent to me describing this experience. I think she dreamed of America as a land paved in gold, and the reality was very hard in contrast. Without familiar family and friends and the home she so loved, she found a refuge in her new sister-in-law, Grace Kellsey Worth, who befriended her and made her feel welcome in the family. Idlehurst was a delight to her, as it reminded her of home. It was a root to grab onto that ran deep in our family and sustained them, as it would nourish her, through the loneliness and heartbreak of leaving her beloved Ireland.

Emily (4.14) and Dick Robinson
 \ daughter of Grace and Browning Worth

Emily is retired almost two years now from her Federal Government job of computer security. She started her own home business under the logo EWR, doing writing, editing and genealogical research. She is a published poet, does readings in libraries and at the Rock Creek Gallery, from time to time. Her biggest thrill was being invited to participate in a reading by three poets on WPFW, public radio in January. Emily is active in the National Society Daughters of the American Revolution (DAR), is currently Regent of the Goshen Mills Chapter, headquartered in Gaithersburg, MD, is State Chairman for Genealogical Records Committee, and is Naturalization Chairman for the Joint Council of Montgomery County DAR Chapters. She has been taking bridge lessons and is now playing several times a week, including one duplicate game at the local Senior Center. For exercise she swims at the local county pool and walks alot. She and Dick took up downhill skiing 14 years ago and are still challenging the slopes. Emily loves travel and some of the photos are from recent trips to the Canadian Rockies and the Great Smoky Mountains of NC/TN.

Dick is still working as a physicist/operations researcher for the Nuclear Regulatory Commission. He plans to retire in 1996. His interests are playing duplicate bridge, jogging, reading, photography, and using the computer for finances and fun. Dick is in charge of the reunion photo contest.

Emily says: "When all our grandchildren get together in one place, like at holiday time, we have a family orchestra. There are 7 instrumentalists among the kids; Dick plays trumpet and son-in-law Rob Carter plays bassoon. The youngest ones play sand blocks or chimes and everyone else sings. We performed concerts for two nursing homes last New Year's Eve day.

"I remember visiting Grandma Worth at the lake and eating her wonderful jello with powdered sugar on it. Aunt Helen had all those neat books and she let me borrow them to read. I was also amazed at her incredibly fat cat!"

-Barbara

Robert and Barbara (5.24) Carter

daughter of Emily and Dick Robinson

Robbie (14 years) and Ben (11 years) Carter

Robert (Rob) is owner/shop manager of R&R Auto Services in Tysons Corner, VA, and Dulles Airport area (has two shops now). He is assistant Scoutmaster for a Venture Group of Boy Scouts, and he is an avid windsurfer enthusiast. He has several boards and carries them on his car or van to many sites on the Chesapeake Bay, Virginia rivers and to Nags Head, NC, where the family goes camping.

Barbara is exploring new career options. Her interests are gardening, and dancing (she is a member of the Topkapi Dancers, a Middle East cultural dance group). She also likes windsurfing-- the whole family does that together.

Robbie plays viola, is a Boy Scout, and is interested in trains and RC trucks.

Ben likes gymnastics, playing the piano, saxophone and participating in Boy Scouts.

1985 Reunion memories:

Barbara: The birthday parties, Ben's first, and Grandma Worth's 90th. The group hike up Kearsarge, "I had always done it before with just a few people, it was great with a big group."

Rob: "Ben learned to walk that week, I took my FIRST windsurfing lesson (and I got hooked for life!)"

Robbie: "Rehearsing for the kids choir, hiking up Mt. Kearsarge with my Grandma Emily, Ben eating (at least stuffing his mouth with) pebbles by the lake shore, and the Patsos' dog diving for rocks."

"I remember playing Racehorse Canasta with Aunt Helen. She knew lots of unusual card games!"

-Richard

Richard John (5.25) and Laurie Robinson

son of Emily and Dick Robinson

Cindy (11 yrs) and Ricky (8 years)

Richard is a computer engineer, member of IEEE, and a Federal Government employee working at a command of the Joint Chiefs of Staff in Dahlgren, VA. His advanced education began in his six year tour of duty with the Navy, then he worked for a computer graphics firm for 10 years before completing his college education at Clemson University, SC. His hobbies are electronics and science fiction. So naturally, his favorite movie is Star Wars and his favorite author Piers Anthony. He shares favorite color with his nephew, Robbie Carter, GREEN!

Richard says, "The highest achievement of my life so far, was to be given the opportunity to design and run a $25-million Super Computer Center with 280 terabytes of storage, and I did it!"

Laurie was educated at Old Dominion University, VA and is currently home schooling Ricky. Her interests are sewing and homemaking.

Cindy attends a private Christian school, and participates in 4H Club. Ricky likes Cloverbuds, a 4H group for younger children, and is a Royal Ambassador at his church- a young boys mission study group. They both love to swim and fish, so it's lucky that there are several small recreation lakes in their development, Presidential Lakes, near Fredericksburg, VA.

Ginger (5.26) and Jeff Eppley

in front: Josiah, age 2 and Tiffany

The Eppley family recently moved to a new house with more space, which is appropriate since their 5th child is due during this reunion.

Jeff is the Manager of the Zanesville, Ohio La-Z-Boy Gallery. Previously, he was a auto salesman for White Chevrolet and for 9 out of 11 years he received "Salesman of the Year" award, competing with 14 other salesmen. He graduated from West Liberty State College, WV. He enjoys acting at the Living Word Theater, and attends Ohio State University baseball games when he can.

Ginger has home schooled her girls for many years, altho they have attended public school from time to time. She likes to participate in Living Word Theater, and enjoys sewing and decorating.

Beth graduated from Jr. Hi in 1993 with a Presidential Scholar award. She likes all genre of art, cats (she has one), playing the clarinet, reading literature and history. She would like to make ballet her career, has danced with the Ballet Met, Columbus, Ohio and in summers at Cambridge Dance Theater. She is excited to be accepted to spend 5 weeks with the Parkersburg, WV Ballet Camp this summer. Two summers ago she visited Russia (Moscow and villages) with Teen Mania Ministries, participating in mime dramas and sharing with local teens thru interpreters.

Crystal has a variety of talents. She was the 1994 anchor for the 4 x 100 relay team from the John Glenn High School, New Concord, OH that won in their state and went to the National Junior Olympics in Florida. She received the 1995 Superior Award at the Columbus Symphony Orchestra Young Musician's Competition in Classical Piano. Crystal plays piano and banjo, likes rabbits and hampsters, jazz dance, acting and singing, has participated in the Living Word Teen Drama Traveling Group and when you see her at the reunion, she will just have flown back from a month in India where she has been a Teen Drama Missionary. She also was Outstanding Cheerleader in Junior High.

Tiffany is developing her violin virtuosity by playing for weddings and restaurants in duets with her sister Crystal. She will be playing in the Columbus Symphony Cadet Orchestra this fall. She also enjoys participating in drama at the Living Word Theater.

Debbie (5.27) and Dennis Pesce

Dennis is currently owner/operator of a Howard County, Maryland company, called "Freedom Towing". After 20 years with Xerox Corp. he's doing exactly what he has always dreamed of, and making a success of it. Education: Associate Degree in Electronics, Allentown, PA. Dennis goes deer hunting (makes fabulous deer BBQ), fly fishing, and family camping, likes swimming, bluegrass music and watching baseball.

Debbie is a Registered Dental Hygienist, having majored in that field for a BS degree at West Liberty State College, WV. Besides her career and being a "home engineer" (which included a recent move to a larger home), she finds time for DAR, sewing, church choirs and skiing. She says, "I became a Christian in high school, then after a shaky period of my faith, rededicated myself to Christ. I have completed the five-year Bible Study Fellowship course, and continue to seek and grow in God's word and grace. Our family attends church regularly, where I direct the Children's choir and sing in the Adult choir. Last November we were blessed by the birth of our newest son, Jonathan. He is surely a gift from God!"

"I remember playing numerous card games on the front porch of Sunflower Lodge cottage, when I was a child"

-Debbie

"Highlights in my mind are David and Lynn's wedding week June 1982 (at Sunapee and Massachusetts), the 1985 Reunion and Winter Luau at Hasty Pudding cottage."

- Dennis

I'm Jonathan Worth Pesce, and I'm proud of my namesake, who was Governor Worth of North Carolina during the mid 1860's, a difficult time of the Civil War.

Anthony says:

"I have just completed 8th grade at Owen Brown Middle School. I like motorized vehicles, remote control boats and ice skating. I play football and basketball and like to watch sports on TV. I play the violin and enjoy playing music with my cousins. My favorite memory of Sunapee is early morning fog on the lake so that you can't see Mount Sunapee from the dock."

"Hi, I'm Nathan, your fast food addict, Italian comedian, just completed 6th grade. I liked "Jurassic Park" and "The Mask"; play guitar (like 90's rock music best), delight in basketball, football, and rollerblading. I'm good at art, particularly sketching, and watching football and basketball. The thing I like best at Sunapee is FIREWORKS ON THE DOCK ! See ya there!"

Sally (4.15) and Dan Kassman

daughter of Grace and Browning Worth

"We were newlyweds at the 1985 reunion. We fondly remember our family taking three of the awards: Sally's mother was the oldest (age 90) family member attending; Sally's granddaughter, Sarah was the youngest, and we were the newest married."

Sally retired March 30, 1994 from her career as a word processor for the County of Riverside, CA, Juvenile Court.

Dan retired a few months before that, in December 1993 after 40 years plus as an aircraft mechanic.

They spent the summer of 1994 in New Hampshire working as carpenters, electricians, plumbers, interior decorators and gardeners at their "Sunflower Lodge" cottage.

Sally says, "We plan to live part of the year in California near some of our children/grandkids, and the summer part of the year at Idlehurst, near the rest of our children/grandkids. We have nine grandchildren, three boys and six girls, with another grandson expected in June 1995. We are thrilled that our granddaughter, Elizabeth Kellsey Sawyer, born last September, carries on the name of my grandmother, who so loved Idlehurst and made it possible for all of us to enjoy it also."

"My special memory about the 1985 reunion was that our daughter, Sarah, was the youngest family member to attend (3 months)...I can't believe it's been 10 years!

"Another memory is of Granny Worth's dips in the lake, she never really swam. She just paddled about with her toes sticking out."
- Ginny

Steve, Steppi, Theresa, Virginia (Ginnie)(5.28) and Sarah Patsos daughter of Sally Kassman and Richard Sawyer

Ginnie is a homemaker, a volunteer at the girl's school, and enjoys aerobics, crafts and sewing. She has planned and managed many improvements to the Hasty Pudding cottage at Idlehurst. Living in Connecticut means she can often spend time at the cottage.

Steve is a manufacturer's representative for MPS Electronics. He enjoys hockey, golf and skiing.

Sarah, 10, is in special chorus, takes dance lessons including ballet, tap and jazz. She also participates in Girl Scouts. In June 1994, Sarah received Overall Academic Achievement award in her 3rd grade class, and a 5-year trophy for dance.

Theresa Ann, age 7, in June 94 was named Most Improved Student in her kindergarten class.

Stephanie Diane, age 5, takes ballet and tap classes.

"As a kid, I always enjoyed having ginger ale and crackers on Aunt Helen's porch during her daily cocktail hour."

- Dave

Dave (5.29) and Lynn Sawyer

son of Sally Kassman
and Richard Sawyer

Dave is Site Manager of the WIYN 3.5 meter telescope located on Kitt Peak in Arizona. Education: Masters Degree in Astronomy, San Diego State University, 1993. For relaxation, Dave runs, bikes and enjoys woodworking.

Lynn is currently a homemaker and volunteers as a teacher's assistant one day a week at David's elementary school. She enjoys swimming in their backyard pool and reading.

Son David, age 6, likes policemen and enjoys arts and crafts. Travis, age 3, just has fun.

"I always enjoy reflecting back on the years growing up here. I love this place and look forward to spending the rest of my life here."

- Bob

Bob (5.30) and Mary Sawyer

son of Sally Kassman
and Richard Sawyer

Bob is an engineering consultant specializing in the development of process control systems for the Biotech industry. He accomplishes most of his work from their Idlehurst home. He also enjoys golf, music, computers, carpentry, cars, and most of all, his 10 month old daughter Elizabeth. Bob has been an Idlehurst resident for 10 years and enjoys it year round.

Mary is a homemaker and enjoys art, cooking and gardening. She also enjoys doing custom calligraphy work for all occasions. Elizabeth keeps her very busy and is a bundle of joy.

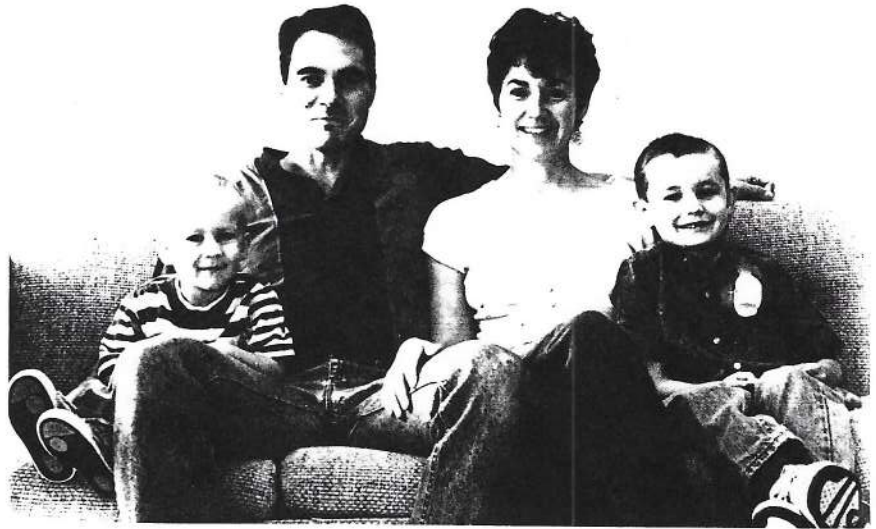

Dave (5.29) and Lynn Sawyer

Son David, age 6 likes policemen, and enjoys arts and crafts. Travis, age 3, just has fun.

Bob (5.30) and Mary Sawyer

son of Sally Kassman and Richard Sawyer

Bob works as an electronics designer for a Boston firm, performing most of his tasks in his office at home (the lower level of Indian Pudding cottage). His presence within the Idlehurst tract makes him a natural for general oversight in off season.

Lynn is a homemaker and enjoys gardening and cooking. Her culinary interests prompted her to collect recipes from family members for a reunion cookbook. She is also a new mother. Baby Elizabeth is 9 months old and will be fascinated, when they get together at the reunion, with her cousin Jonathan Worth Pesce who is 7 months.

Theresa Urbano Churchill, wife of John Henry Churchill (3.12-deceased)

Theresa is now living in a senior apartment at Huntington Beach, CA, and is well and very alert for her years, 90th birthday this past January. Her sister, Ann, also moved to that apartment complex, so they're enjoying living close to each other. Theresa is excited about coming to this reunion with her daughters, Joanne and Susan, and other family members.

No response from Jack Churchill (4.16)

No response from Steven Churchill (5.32)

Denise Marie Churchill Siino (5.33)
Daughter of Jack Churchill and granddaughter of Theresa, above.

Denise lives in Orange, CA and is a freelance writer using alias author names of L.Channing (fiction) and Maxiene Hayward (essays). Education: BA, English with creative writing emphasis, Chapman University. She is currently writing a book which focuses on the three living Urbano sisters, Theresa being one. Denise is also very interested in genealogy and especially requested information about the Churchill line from Emily Robinson. Her hobbies are scuba, horseback riding, sailing, cooking and reading. She likes to watch softball. She is sorry that she and her two teenagers cannot attend the reunion. [the other family teenagers are sorry too, Ed.]

Susan Churchill Shinn/Fullerton (4.18)
Daughter of Theresa and John Churchill

"I remember being at Idlehurst and there was a donkey stabled a long way off who 'he-hawed' so loud you could hear it clearly. I also remember the Woodbine Cottage- a wonderful restaurant on the other side of the lake."

Susan is a bookkeeper and in her spare time rides horses. Right now she is excited because she is going to be a grandmother for the first time (Camela is expecting a baby in November). Susan likes baseball, lasagna, bright green things and books by A. A. Milne. Her two daughters, Camela Shinn Tufts, and Daria Shinn Hutchinson, live nearby in Florida. Susan and her husband, Ronald, are looking forward to attending this reunion.

Joanne Churchill Gordon/Rundel (4.17)

daughter of John and Theresa Churchill

Joanne says, "I am a retired dietitian, and enjoy sewing, knitting, gardening and cooking, as well as being involved in some community activities. In 1990, I received the Outstanding Dietitian award for the Northeast District of the Mississippi Dietetic Association. I served as President of this association in 1991. I served as President of our Homeowners Association in 1993 and 1994.

My favorite memory from the 1985 reunion : Having lived in Lexington, MA for seven years in the 60's and having been guests of Grace and Browning Worth at Sunflower Lodge many times, it was wonderful to see the Lodge again, and to walk around the area to see all the familiar homes. The blueberry bushes were still there! I also enjoyed taking my parents to Woodbine Cottage for lobster. The restaurant was just the same as I had remembered it over the years.

My dad, John Churchill, who attended the 1985 reunion and loved every minute of it, died in 1993. He often told me stories about Sunapee, where his mother, Eleanor Hurl Churchill, owned the cottage on the lake corner of Idlehurst, just west of Kellseys. [that cottage at one time was called Hurl-Worth because it was owned by Eleanor and Grace Worth]. My dad's favorite story was one time when he came back to the cottage soaking wet, and his mother got mad at him, because she had told him not to go into the water. [he probably was quite young] He said to her, "Mama, I didn't go into the water, the water came up and wetted me!" He told stories of going out on the lake in a boat and generally having fun with his older brother, Hurl."

Scott Andrew Gordon (5.34)

son of Joanne and Chad Gordon

Scott is presently teaching English to Spanish speaking citizens at the Culture Lingua in Zamora, Michoacan, in Mexico.
Education: BA from University of Texas in Austin, 1993.

Wendy Ann Gordon (5.35) and Marcus Hobbs daughter of Joanne and Chad Gordon

Wendy and Marcus were married in May 1993.
Wendy remembers visiting Idlehurst on many occasions when she lived in MA from 1963-1970, and is anticipating the fun of being there again.

BOOK-STYLE GENEALOGY WITH DATES, PLACES, AND ADDRESSES

This genealogy begins with the eighth generation of a certain line of Churchills descended from Josiah Churchill who settled in Wethersfield, CT in 1638.

This genealogy follows one of the accepted book format and numbering systems. The numbering is in the form a.b where a is the generation number and b is the child number in that generation. Each child in a family group, in that generation, has a number given in numeric sequence, oldest to youngest in their group, but not necessarily in age order among cousins. In the sixth generation (current) the numbers skip in order to allow for additional entries in family groups.

- 1.1 William Henry Churchill, the 7th child of Henry Ufford Churchill and Emily Green Hall, b. 29 Nov 1832, Portland, CT; d. 27 Sep 1898, CA, buried Chapel of the Chimes, Oakland, CA; m. 27 Jan 1853, St. Ann Church, Brooklyn, NY, Jane Douglas Hebert who was b. 10 Oct 1832, New York City; d. 19 Dec 1919, Oakland, CA; buried Chapel of Chimes. Her parents were John Henry Hebert of NYC and Elizabeth Smith. William and Jane lived in Portland and Middletown CT, Somerville, MA, and Sierra Madre, CA.
